Developmental Questions and Observations

Ask the parent to respond to the following statements about the child.

Yes No

Please tell me any concerns about the way your child is behaving or developing.

My child is learning how to play and share with others.

My child says positive things about themselves.

My child can tell when others are happy, mad or sad.

My child enjoys pretend play.

My child eats a variety of foods.

My child can sing a song.

My child can hop on one foot.

Ask the parent to respond to the following statements:

Yes No

I have people who assist me when I have questions or need help.

I am enjoying my time with my child.

I have time for myself, partner and friends.

I feel safe with my partner.

I feel confident in parenting.

Provider to follow up as necessary.

Developmental Milestones

Always ask parents if they have concerns about development or behavior. (You may use the following screening list or a standardized developmental instrument or screening tool. See chart.)

Child Development	Parent Development
	Yes No	Yes No
Dresses self		Appropriately disciplines child
Balances on each foot for 2 seconds		Parent is loving toward child
Says first and last name when asked		Positively talks, listens, and responds to child.
Can draw a person with three parts		Parent uses words to tell child what is coming next.
Aggression or destructive behavior that threatens, harms or damages people, animals or property
Displays negativity, low self-esteem, or extreme dependency

Please note: Some developmental milestones are recommended when a clinician suggests a delay or abnormality, especially when the opportunity for continuing observation is not anticipated. (Single Source: Guidelines for Health Supervision of Infants, Children, and Adolescents)
