OUR USE AND DISCLOSURE OF YOUR HEALTH INFORMATION FOR TREATMENT, PAYMENT AND HEALTH CARE OPERATIONS

Your health information, linked with your name or other identifying information is used in many ways such as providing care, obtaining payment for your care and running our business. Disclosure of your health information for purposes described in this Notice may be made in writing, orally, electronically or by facsimile. As permitted by HIPAA and Michigan State law, we may use or disclose your health information for several purposes. Here are some examples of how we may use or disclose your health information.

Treatment: We may use your health information to provide you with medical care in our facilities or in your home. We also may share your health information with others who provide care to you, such as hospitals, nursing homes, doctors, nurses, physician assistants, medical and nursing students, therapists, technicians, emergency services and transportation providers, medical equipment providers, pharmacies, and others involved in your care. For example, different hospital departments may share your health information to coordinate your prescriptions, laboratory, x-rays and other medical needs.

Payment: We may use and disclose your health information as needed to get paid for the medical care that we provide to you or to assist others who care for you to get paid for that care. For example, we may share your health information with a billing company or with your health insurance plan to obtain prior approval for your care or to make sure your plan will cover your care.

Health Care Operations: We may use or disclose your health information for our quality assurance activities and as needed to run our health care facilities. We may use your health information in combination with other patients' health information to improve our efforts and to learn where we can improve our care and services. We also may use or disclose your health information to get legal, auditing, accounting and other services and for teaching, business management and planning purposes. We may disclose your information to business and individuals (e.g., medical transcription services) who perform services for us involving health information as long as they agree to protect the privacy of that information.

Health Information Exchange (HIE): We participate in Health Information Exchanges such as Great Lakes Health Connect and Community Care, as permitted by law, your health information is electronically shared with HIEs for the purpose of improving the overall quality of health care services provided to you (e.g., by avoiding unnecessary duplicate testing). Health Information Exchanges are required to maintain appropriate administrative, technical and physical safeguards to protect the privacy and security of your protected health information. Only authorized individuals may access the HIE and use your protected health information. You have the right to request in writing that we not disclose any of your protected health information to the HIE. Except for health information required by law to be shared with the HIE, you may opt-out or restrict the sharing of your health information by contacting the Information Privacy Office listed at the end of this notice. Opting out may result in a health care provider not
