Privacy.
A patient is entitled to privacy in the patient facility, in treatment and in caring for his or her personal records.

Research.
A patient is entitled to the extent feasible to treatment and surgery for his or her general health, to participate in research, and to refuse or withdraw from research.

Appropriate care.
A patient is entitled to receive appropriate and appropriate care.

Informed decisions.
A patient has the right to make informed decisions and to receive from the appropriate individuals, information about his or her medical condition, proposed course of treatment, diagnosis, prognosis, and available choices for treatment, or to refuse the patient's proposed or the medical approach a patient is entitled to refuse care or to refuse to consent to a procedure or to consent to a procedure.

Refusal of treatment.
A patient is entitled to refuse treatment to the extent permitted by law, and to be informed of the consequences of his or her refusal. However, when a patient is unable to make a decision, the physician may provide emergency care to the patient if the physician may reasonably believe that the patient's health or safety is at risk.

Exercise of rights.
A patient is entitled to exercise his or her rights as a patient and as a child. His or her rights, responsibilities, and obligations are set forth in this document. A patient's rights and responsibilities are set forth in this document.

Emergency procedures.
