PATIENT SUCCESS STORIES

Everlyn, who is in her early 70's, was experiencing leakage for two years before she found out about physical therapy as a treatment option. She was able to stop taking the incontinence medication after a couple of weeks of therapy and now drinks caffeine without problems.

"Many women do not like to discuss this problem, but I never felt uncomfortable talking with her, even from the beginning. She gave me exercise techniques to do as she saw I could take them on. She never rushed me."

Tammy suffered for over a decade with vaginismus, a condition that makes exams and intercourse very painful or in severe cases, impossible.

"It was the nurse practitioner at my primary care doctor's office that told me about physical therapy as a treatment option. It was not even two months of going to physical therapy that I was able to have intercourse with my husband without pain for the first time in ten years."
