McLaren employees and medical staff strive to provide comprehensive, quality health care in a spirit of personal caring, safety and concern. McLaren has the responsibility to provide adequate and appropriate care, to respect patients' rights, and to recognize a patient's responsibility. In an effort to accomplish this goal, the following rights and responsibilities have been designed.

McLaren recognizes the right of the patient to receive the full range of services available in the hospital or health care facility, including admission, or admission. A patient has the right to have a complete physical, dental, hearing, test of vision, or legally authorized representative receive these rights when the patient is incapable of doing so, without admission, discrimination, or admission.

The Right to Access Care

- A patient will not be denied care on the basis of age, race, ethnicity, creed, color, religious, national origin, ancestry, culture, language, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, physical or mental disability, HIV status, marital status, socioeconomic status, education, or source of payment. The patient has a right to receive a reasonable response to requests and needs for treatment or services.

The Right to Make Decisions Involving Your Care

- The patient or surrogate decision maker has the right to participate in the development and implementation of his or her plan of care and actively participate in decision-making regarding his or her medical care. To the extent permitted by law (determined by applicable State and Federal law), this includes the right to request and/or refuse treatment.
- Before a procedure or treatment is carried out, a patient has the right to receive as much information about any proposed treatment or procedure as needed to give informed consent or to refuse a procedure except in emergencies.
- A patient has the right to access medical and other information about his or her health.
- A patient has the right to participate in the development and implementation of his or her plan of care and actively participate in decision-making regarding his or her medical care. To the extent permitted by law (determined by applicable State and Federal law), this includes the right to request and/or refuse treatment.

The Right to Information

- A patient has the right to receive information about his or her illness, course of treatment, outcomes of care (including genetic testing outcomes), and his or her prognosis for recovery.
- A patient has the right to receive information in a manner that can be understood. Language interpreting and translation services will be provided to meet the patient's needs.
- A patient is entitled to information about the hospital's rules and regulations that affect patient care and comfort.
- A patient has the right to be informed of the relationship between McLaren and other persons and organizations that may be participating in the provision of his or her care (such as home care agencies).
- An individual who is or has been a patient is entitled to request or receive for a reasonable fee, a copy of his or her medical record upon request within a reasonable time frame.
- A patient has a right to receive pertinent or actual, timely advice regarding patient's rights, either by being informed of his or her rights or by receiving a copy of the Hospital's Patient Rights and Responsibilities.
- The patient's family has the right of informed consent for donation of organs and tissues.

The Right to Communication

- A patient has a right to know the professional status of any person responsible for, as well as those assisting for his or her care, treatment and services.
- A patient has a right to know the names and titles of the health care providers who are providing his or her care.
- A patient has the right to be advised of the hospital's policies, procedures, and rules or other work to communicate a concern regarding the quality of care he or she receives or if he or she feels discharged or discharged into a premature.
- A patient has the right to have his or her physician and family members or representatives of his or her choice notified promptly of his or her admission to the hospital.

The Right to Personal Safety

- A patient has the right to receive free from disclosure or retention of any tests that are not medically or clinically necessary or are used as a means of coercion, discipline, convenience, or retaliation by staff.
- A patient has the right to be free from restraints, seclusion, and all forms of abuse or harassment.
- A patient may exercise their rights while wearing care without coercion, discrimination, or retaliation.

The Right to Personal Privacy and Confidentiality of Medical Treatment/Records

- A patient is entitled to full confidentiality of privacy concerning his or her medical care, prognosis, care, diagnosis, consultation, examination and treatment are confidential and should be conducted privately. The patient has the right to be advised as to the reasons for the provision of any information received in his or her healthcare.
- A patient has a right to confidential treatment of all communications and records pertaining to his or her care and financial status. Written permission will be obtained before medical records can be made available to anyone not directly involved with a patient's care.
- A patient has the right to access, request amendment to and receive an accounting of this location regarding his or her health information as permitted under applicable law.
- A patient is entitled to associate and have private conversations with his or her physician, attorney, or any other person of his or her choice.
- A patient has the right to be afforded privacy during personal hygiene activities, during treatments, and when requested, on admission.

The Right to Spiritual Beliefs
